Bio

Grason Ratowsky is an American visual artist working across many different disciplines including painting, sculpture, design and functional art. Ratowsky grew up in the United States, Costa Rica and Spain and studied fine art with his artist father Ian Ratowsky from an early age. Today, Ratowsky lives part time in between the island of Mallorca, Spain and New York City.

Inspired by vast experiences, interconnectivity and idiosyncratic forms, Ratowsky's expressionist approach showcases a uniquely balanced union of energetic brushwork, fragmented structure and deep knowledge of composition and color psychology. This combination ultimately deconstructs space and morphs the essence of the subconscious into visual tangible works of fine art. His works blend the lines between the movement of expressionism with abstract contorted figuration, ultimately creating a subject matter in a singular signature style.
